

Attn. Business, Real Estate, Legal Editors

'WillPowerWeb' puts estate planning online, giving lawyers unprecedented service capabilities

LawyerDoneDeal's newest Web-based system renders desktop document-creation services obsolete

TORONTO (July 22, 2008) – LawyerDoneDeal Corp., a leading provider of Web-based solutions for Canada's legal professionals, today announced the launch of WillPowerWeb, bringing lawyers a completely new generation of online capabilities in creating and updating wills and other estate-planning documents.

WillPowerWeb is a state-of-the-art solution that lets lawyers tap into a powerful database management system and easy-to-use templates to quickly create and customize wills, Powers of Attorney, Affidavits of Execution and estate-planning documents.

"There has been huge demand for a product like this and WillPowerWeb brings entirely new capabilities to the legal profession at a time when wills and estate planning represent a rapidly growing segment of legal services," said Maurizio Romanin, president of Toronto-based LawyerDoneDeal Corp.

"Desktop-based document-creation systems are obsolete when you consider the level of efficiency, accessibility and ease-of-use that WillPowerWeb delivers to the marketplace. There is nothing available today to match it," Romanin added.

Lawyer Heather Babcock-Cormier, who writes for several wills and estates publications in Canada, co-developed WillPowerWeb's content with LDD and described the new Web-based system as having "phenomenal capabilities" for lawyers who can now access and update estate-planning data and documents online anytime and from any location.

"WillPowerWeb delivers a new level of efficiency and ease-of-use for us in everything from wills creation to updating to following up with clients," said Babcock-Cormier, whose legal firm, Gibson & Adams LLP in Innisfil, Ont., is now using WillPowerWeb. "Having access to everything you need online - and being able to work on up-to-date documents remotely from any location - is another huge benefit in terms of letting us give clients the fastest, most-efficient service possible."

WillPowerWeb is available via a simple, no-cost registration process, with no annual license fees or support costs and no software to install. WillPowerWeb uses a transaction-based pricing system that lets lawyers only pay for what they use. LawyerDoneDeal is offering demonstrations of its newest product to legal professionals by calling 800-363-2253, Ext. 228, or by faxing a request to 877-367-4066.

About LawyerDoneDeal Corp.

LawyerDoneDeal delivers state-of-the-art Web-based solutions for the legal profession and for mortgage lenders, new home builders and other professionals who work with lawyers as part of the delivery of their products and services. Through its Internet-based ASP model, LDD is creating efficient new ways for professionals to work together more accurately and reliably. Visit www.lawyerdonedeal.com to find out more about our solutions.

For more information contact:

Mark Nusca

Porter Novelli Canada

416.422.7179

mark.nusca@porternovelli.com